

You've hit the right tobacco when you fire-up some Prince Albert in your old jimmy pipe or in a makin's cigarette. And you know it! Can't get in wrong with P. A. for it is made right; made to spread-smoke-sunshine among men who have suffered with scorched tongues and parched throats! The patented process fixes that—and cuts out bite and parch.

All day long you'll sing how glad you are you're pals with

It's an easy job to change the shape and color of unsmokable brands to imitate the Prince Albert tobacco. The patented process protects that!

PRINCE ALBERT

the national joy smoke

You take this testimony straight from the shoulder, men.
You can smoke a barrel of P. A. without a kick! It hands out all the tobacco happiness any man ever dreamed about, it's so smooth and friendly. It's a mighty cheerful thing to be on talking-terms with your pipe and your tongue at the same time—but that's what's coming to you sure as you pin your faith to Prince Albert!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

When it Really Affected the Farmer.

(From The St. Louis Republic.)

No Republican, whether he calls himself progressive or stand-pat, appears to be able to argue honestly about the tariff. Collier's Weekly, whose motto is "Anything to beat Wilson," is re-enforcing its editorializings on the "receding popularity" of the President with a series of articles on the eligibles. The current issue contains a dissertation on Senator Borah of Idaho, by Henry J. Allen, the Progressive editor of The Wichita Beacon, in which Borah is permitted to speak in a copious interview.

The Senator from Idaho, after discussing upon the need of economy in public building construction—apparently in entire ignorance of the fact that a large part of this hoary Republican graft has been cut off by Secretary McAdoo's new regulations—comes out strong upon the tariff "Any plan," he says, "that results in the American farmer's having to sell in a free market will not work."

How can one be patient with such nonsense as this? This surplus must be exported. The prices of such staples as wheat and cotton are made in the Liverpool market. Tariff taxes laid on these things do not ordinarily affect prices at all, for the grower of a crop a large portion of which must be sold in a foreign market sells in a free market just the same as if the tariff did not exist.

We hasten to admit, however, that sometimes a tariff on an agricultural product may be operative in the United States. This was the case with the potato tariff during one season under the Payne-Aldrich law—that of 1910, if recollection serve, when a drouth had cut short the crop.

Prices on potatoes ruled much as usual near planting time in the spring.
Then the scant supply was reflected in a sharp advance. This did not benefit the Middle West growers, who had sold their crops to the dealers. Yet the tariff affected the farmer nevertheless, for potatoes had to be imported for seed—and he paid the tariff, the tariff that could not operate in his favor when he, in normal times, sold in competition with the world, but which stood up like a wall against him when he needed cheap seed.

The personal honesty of Republican politicians is one thing and their intellectual honesty quite another.
Straight misrepresentation about the tariff is standard practice with them.

Iron Ore in Northeastern Texas.

The brown ores of northeastern Texas have been used to some extent for making iron in small local forges or furnaces in almost every county in which a good-sized deposit of ore occurs. This form of industry was carried on mainly between 1880 and 1870.
Between 1870 and 1909 iron was manufactured from time to time in five or more small charcoal blast furnaces. Since the last of these furnaces went out of blast several plans have been made to establish iron and steel works on the Gulf coast, as well as points between the ore field and the Oklahoma coking-coal field. The recent conditions of the iron and steel markets have not, however, been favorable to such enterprises, so some iron ore has been shipped to blast furnaces in Alabama and on the Atlantic seaboard.

In response to many requests received by the United States Geological Survey during the last three or four years for published data concerning the iron-ore deposits of northeastern Texas, a reconnaissance of this area was made in the autumn of 1914 by Ernest F. Burchard, a survey geologist, who, in Bulletin 630-E, which may be obtained free by applying to the Director of the Survey, gives an account of the early exploration of these deposits together with descriptions of deposits in Cass, Marion, Morris, and Cherokee counties and analyses of the ores.

In the iron-ore district of northeastern Texas the surface is occupied chiefly by sand, clay, gravel, and silt.
The most recent deposits—those that form the bars and bottom lands along the streams—are Quaternary age, but the great masses of sand and clay with which the iron-ore deposits are associated are of early Tertiary age (Eocene). The iron ore consists of limonite, or hydrated iron oxide (brown ore), and siderite, or iron carbonate.

Both kinds of ore occur in nodules and irregular masses of almost endless variety, embedded in glauconitic sand and clay. In places the washing away of the soft sands and clays in which the ore was originally inclosed has left masses of loose ore on the surface.
The brown ore, particularly in central Cherokee County, occurs also as a rather persistent laminated bed, 1½ to 4 feet thick.

Analyses of 132 samples of iron ore from the four counties considered in the report show the following average percentages of metallic iron: Cass County, 48.64 per cent; Marion County, 54.91 per cent; and Cherokee County, 44.64 per cent. As most of the so-called brown ore used in this county carry about 45 per cent of iron, the brown ores of northern Texas are above the average grade. The profitable exploitation of these Texas ores, however, probably depends on the application of some schemes of mechanical concentration. Hand-picking is wasteful and altogether too slow and expensive to be continued.

Piedmont-Ironton Debate.

(From The Piedmont Banner.)
The Piedmont debating team won the first debate in the history of the school, at Ironton Friday night of last week. The visitors debated the affirmative of the question: Resolved, "That the United States should grant the Philippines their freedom." The debate was close as the Ironton boys were well prepared and delivered their parts well. The Piedmont debaters were Edgar Short and Cythia Pennington. Miss Pennington was easily the best speaker of the evening.

Her short, snappy remarks in his rebuttal speech, much as he did in basket ball.
Ironton's speakers were Robert Edgar and Pollock. The former was the better of the two in organization of subject matter but both were good speakers. Both speakers were members of the basket ball team and showed the same fight in debate that forced Piedmont to earn so dearly the victories in recent basket ball contests.
The team and visitors from here were treated well and had a good visit.

pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarh. Hall's Catarh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarh Cure is taken in-by destroying the foundation of the dis-building up the constitution and assisting

A Central Shot.

The Central Missouri Leader, published at Centertown, in an editorial under the caption "Hell's Afire," makes an attack on the State officials at Jefferson City, in which the editor of the Leader terms the "State House gang," but mostly directs his fire and brimstone at Secretary Cornelius Roach and family, in an effort to get the country press to join the Leader in the support of one Mr. Houchin for Governor of Missouri, whom the Leader claims to be the only rock-ribbed, honest aspirant to that office, and a man who is absolutely clean.
But he failed to state that Mr. Houchin was a rich man, and that he made his fortune from the labor of convicts in his big overall factory, in which there was as much graft, and we think more, and not nearly as commendable as the securing of an honest position for a relative. And while every knock is a boost for Con. Roach, we would suggest that if Mr. Houchin expects to be even a close next to the last man in the race he had better pull the Leader out of the fight, as the time has come when the fair-minded, intelligent and public spirited people do not uphold, or even tolerate such racket, and as to the record of Mr. Roach, when a committee composed of both Democrats and Republicans, and we believe as honest and fair-minded gentlemen as can be found anywhere, say that they find that the clerical force employed in the office of Secretary of State was authorized by law and by specific appropriation to cover same, and that no new positions have been created in that office, nor salaries raised except as authorized by law and appropriations to cover same, we are at a loss to know wherein the graff comes, and we have no doubt that should the same kind of a committee investigate the records of the other State officials, would find them to be clean and above reproach also. And for the benefit of Mr.

Houchin, we would again suggest, that if he has bought "on" the Leader, it would be to his advantage to buy it "off" and stop the mud slinging and therein be doing a favor to the editor of the Leader which he will be thankful for when the votes are counted after the primary.—Liburn Herald.

Aid the Kidney.

Do Not Endanger Life When Ironton Citizens Shows you the way to Avoid It.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, who allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a tested remedy is offered them?
Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in kidney trouble over 50 years, have been tested in thousands of cases.
If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, act now. Dropsy or Bright's disease may set in and make neglect dangerous.
Read this Ironton testimony.
Mrs. McCallister, Ironton, says:
"Some years ago I was suffering from head backaches, pains through my kidneys and loins, caused by weak kidneys. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me."
